V. Reading Comprehension: Choose the best answers to the following questions (36%)

The word euthanasia is of Greek origin and literally means "a good death." The American Heritage Dictionary defines it as "the act of killing a person painlessly for reasons of mercy." Such killing can be done through active means, such as administering a lethal injection, or by passive means, such as withholding medical care or food and water.

In recent years in the United States, there have been numerous cases of active euthanasia in the news. They usually involve the deliberate killing of ill or incapacitated persons by relatives or friends who plead that they can no longer bear to see their loved ones suffer. Although such killings are a crime, the perpetrators are often dealt with leniently by our legal system, and the media usually portrays them as compassionate heroes who take personal risks to save another from unbearable suffering.

The seeming acceptance of active forms of euthanasia is alarming, but we face a bigger, more insidious threat from passive forms of euthanasia. Every year, in hospitals and nursing homes around the country, there are growing numbers of documented deaths caused by caregivers withholding life-sustaining care, including food and water, from vulnerable patients who cannot speak for themselves.

While it is illegal to kill someone directly, for example with a gun or knife, in many cases the law has put its stamp of approval on causing death by omitting needed care. Further, many states have "living will" laws designed to protect those who withhold treatment, and there have been numerous court rulings which have approved of patients being denied care and even starved and dehydrated to death.

Because such deaths occur quietly within the confines of hospitals and nursing homes, they can be kept hidden from the public. Most euthanasia victims are old or very ill, so their deaths might be attributed to a cause other than the denial of care that really killed them. Further, it is often relatives of the patient who request that care be withheld. In one court case, the court held that decisions to withhold life-sustaining care may be made not only by close family members but also by a number of third parties, and that such decisions need not be reviewed by the judicial system if there is no disagreement between decision makers and medical staff. The court rules that a nursing home may not refuse to participate in the fatal withdrawal of food and water from an incompetent patient.

33. As used in paragraph 1, which is the best definition of “lethal”?

- a. proceeding in a gradual, subtle way
- b. referring to the effect or influence of one person, thing, or action
- c. sufficient to cause death

In his thought-provoking work, Philosophical Investigations, Ludwig Wittgenstein uses an easily conceptualized scenario in an attempt to clarify some of the problems involved in thinking about the mind as something over and above the behaviors that it produces. Imagine, he says, that everyone has a small box in which they keep a beetle. No one is allowed to look in anyone else’s box, only in their own. Over time, people talk about what is in their boxes and the word “beetle” comes to stand for what is in everyone’s box.

Through this curious example, Wittgenstein attempts to point out that the beetle is very much like an individual’s mind; no one can know exactly what it is like to be another person or experience things from another’s perspective—look in someone else’s “box”—but it is generally assumed that the mental workings of other people’s minds are very similar to that of our own (everyone has a “beetle” which is more or less similar to everyone else’s). However, it does not really matter—he argues—what is in the box or whether everyone indeed has a beetle, since there is no way of checking or comparing. In a sense, the word “beetle”—if it is to have any sense or meaning—simply means “what is in the box”. From this point of view, the mind is simply “what is in the box”, or rather “what is in your head”.

Wittgenstein argues that although we cannot know what it is like to be someone else, to say that there must be a special mental entity called a mind that makes our experiences private, is wrong. His rationale is that he considers language to have meaning because of public usage. In other words, when we talk of having a mind—or a beetle—we are using a term that we have learned through conversation and public discourse (rooted in natural language). The word might be perceived differently in each of our minds, but we all agree that it signifies something; this allows us to develop language for talking about conceptualizations like color, mood, size and shape. Therefore, the word “mind” cannot be used to refer specifically to some entity outside of our individualized conception, since we cannot see into other people’s boxes.

40. According to the last paragraph, “the word “mind” cannot be used to refer specifically to some entity outside of our individualized conception” because

- a. there is no way of checking or comparing what is going on in another person’s mind
- b. Wittgenstein’s rationale is that a mind makes our experiences private
- c. one often looks in someone else’s “box”

- d. the word “mind” is an easily conceptualized scenario

42. As used in paragraph 3, which is the best definition or synonym for discourse?
- A. information given via the senses of sight or hearing
 B. engagement
 C. announcement
 D. written or spoken communication
43. In paragraph 3, since a “word might be perceived differently in each of our minds”
- a. it is impossible for us to communicate
 b. one develops conceptualizations of various objects
 c. one has to study philosophy
 d. imagination is important in regard to thinking
44. In the first paragraph, “thought-provoking” means
- a. inspiring b. frustrating c. puzzling d. applicable
45. “Beetle” refers to
- a. things that are put in boxes
 b. everyone indeed has an insect in his head
 c. the mind that is comparable to a box
 d. Wittgenstein’s attempt to communication

SOME sage once quipped that writing about music is about as edifying—and evocative—as dancing about architecture. Certainly most music criticism has a lifeless quality, packed with adjectives yet tuneless on the page. Yet Alex Ross, a music critic for the New Yorker, manages to stand out. His gifts as a writer are all the more impressive given that his subject tends to be the most difficult music composed in the last century, from Gustav Mahler to Steve Reich.

“The Rest is Noise”, his best-selling 2007 book on the history of the 20th century through its music, is now being re-worked as a year-long music festival at the Southbank centre in London. Although Mr Ross was not involved in organising the festival, he will be giving four lectures on the history of 20th-century music.

Mr Ross spoke to The Economist about why he wrote this book in the first place, and why it is particularly hard to get contemporary audiences excited about modern music.

“It took you ten years to write “The Rest is Noise”. What was your motivation?”

“It emerged really from an obsession that I had with 20th-century music going back to my teenage years. At university I immersed myself in it very heavily with a radio show that I had. I was also studying literature and history—especially late-19th century and early-20th century period—so it all coalesced.”

“I grew up listening to classical music in the traditional sense, from Bach to Brahms. That was the world I was completely absorbed in. I really didn’t listen to any other kind of music aside from this repertory. So it was something of a shock to slowly realise that there was more to the story, and I was shocked and fascinated when my piano teacher in high school played works by Schoenberg, Berg and Bartok. I started making my way through them at the piano, and after an initial struggle, I really fell in love with the music. I was fascinated by the music itself, by the surrounding cultural and historical context, and wanted to figure out how it all fit together. So it seemed inevitable that this would be the subject.”

46. In the last paragraph, “coalesced” means
- a. merge b. distribute c. confuse d. discriminate
47. Most people think that music criticism is
- a. contributive b. useless c. harmful d. vivid
48. Alex Ross
- a. stands out playing music in a year-long music festival
 b. organize music festival related to Mahler and Reich
 c. gives lectures concerning the history of a certain period of music

d. studies literature and becomes a writer of novels

49. The best synonym for “immersed” is

a. fascinated b. persuaded c. extended d. absorbed

50. According to Ross, music

a. is an independent subject that does not involve its context

b. usually has a great story

c. always brings one struggle when one tries to play the piano

d. is deeply related to culture and history

1. 有位 48 歲婦女數月以來深受嚴重牙周病所苦，不知道手術方式或持續的傳統治療(scaling and root planning)對她最有益處，你需要根據以往的研究證據來建議她。以往的研究顯示有 50 個男性嚴重牙周病病人，其中有 30 接受手術治療，而另外 20 病人接受傳統治療，此研究比較不同方法處理兩個月之後的治療效果，發現手術比起傳統方式有比較好的治療成功率。

根據上述，在研究的效度上，請回答下述 5 個問題且選出最佳答案：

- I. 由於研究樣本數不多，所以有可能導致錯誤的結論，這種錯誤的來源是：(5%)
- A. 選擇性偏差(Selection bias)
 - B. 測量性偏差/資訊性偏差(Measurement bias/information bias)
 - C. 干擾因子(Confounding)
 - D. 機會(Chance)
 - E. 外在效度(External validity)
- II. 由於研究個案均為男性，而你的對象為女性，所以導致錯誤的結果，這種錯誤的來源是：(5%)
- A. 選擇性偏差(Selection bias)
 - B. 測量性偏差/資訊性偏差(Measurement bias/information bias)
 - C. 干擾因子(Confounding)
 - D. 機會(Chance)
 - E. 外在效度(External validity)
- III. 若接受手術方式的研究對象比較年輕，傳統療法的對象年紀比較大，而且年輕人有比較好的治療成功率的話，有可能導致錯誤的結論，這種錯誤的來源是：(5%)
- A. 選擇性偏差(Selection bias)
 - B. 測量性偏差/資訊性偏差(Measurement bias/information bias)
 - C. 干擾因子(Confounding)
 - D. 機會(Chance)
 - E. 外在效度(External validity)
- IV. 若接受傳統療法的研究對象比較少人在兩個月後回診接受評估，所以有可能導致錯誤的結論，這種錯誤的來源是：(5%)
- A. 選擇性偏差(Selection bias)
 - B. 測量性偏差/資訊性偏差(Measurement bias/information bias)
 - C. 干擾因子(Confounding)
 - D. 機會(Chance)
 - E. 外在效度(External validity)
- V. 若病人沒有其他疾病且容易治療成功者比較會選擇手術的方法幫他治療，所以有可能導致錯誤的結論，這種錯誤的來源是：(5%)
- A. 選擇性偏差(Selection bias)
 - B. 測量性偏差/資訊性偏差(Measurement bias/information bias)
 - C. 干擾因子(Confounding)
 - D. 機會(Chance)
 - E. 外在效度(External validity)
2. 有份關於口腔癌危險因子的研究，收集了 400 名口腔癌的病人為研究對象，根據這些人的問卷調查結果，發現 90% 的這群研究對象有抽菸的習慣，同樣的這群病人有嚼食檳榔習慣者只有 80%，所以研究者強烈批評現行的口腔癌防治工作只針對檳榔是不對的，應該把重點放在菸害防治上面以避免口腔癌的發生。根據上面的敘述，請提出你的看法。(25%，答案不超過 250 字)

3. 有份關於乳齒塗氟對防治乳齒齲齒發生的研究，研究者隨機收集國小一年級的學生共 1000 名為研究對象，在檢查他們的牙齒的同時也回溯調查他們的牙科就診病歷以了解他們是否曾經有塗氟的經驗，研究結果顯示曾經塗氟的小朋友比較沒有齲齒的發生，進而推斷塗氟對齲齒的發生有防治的效果。試著就研究方法與可能性的偏差來評斷這份研究。(25%，答案不超過 250 字)

4. 齲齒和牙周病是國人最常見的兩種口腔疾病，其中牙周病是一種慢性疾病，初期的病變並無疼痛症狀，常被患者忽略。整個病變的過程從初期之刷牙流血，到中期之長牙包、口臭、牙肉萎縮，到末期的牙齒動搖，需要漫長的時間。近年來有關牙周病議題是它和很多全身性的疾病有關，甚至可能是其他全身性疾病的危險因子。所以請就牙周炎和心血管疾病之間的關係提出你的研究方法及步驟來驗證其中的關聯性。(25%，答案不超過 250 字)
